April 2015

Dear Colleagues,

I would like to welcome everyone (that would be y’all here in Texas!) to the 2015 Council for the Study of Community Colleges Annual Conference. This is a noteworthy year as we host this conference for the first time separate from A.A.C.C., and are pleased to have Fort Worth, Texas as our host city for our 57th annual conference.

For over fifty years, the Council for the Study of Community Colleges has proudly served as an affiliate of the American Association of Community Colleges. The Council for the Study of Community Colleges is the premiere professional organization serving as the interdisciplinary home for university-based researchers, community college practitioners, and graduate students collectively engaged in furthering scholarship on two-year institutions of higher education.

The exciting and essential work highlighting community college research and practice globally is reflected in this year’s conference theme The Best Road to Progress: Community Colleges as Developers of Talents and Success. Prepare yourself for three days of thought-provoking symposiums, cutting-edge research, inspiring special guests, and opportunities to meet amazing contemporaries from institutions across the country that are committed to disciplined study and bold leadership in community college education.

Once again, the 57th Annual CSCC Conference has something to offer everyone, from graduate students at different stages of research exploring community college issues, to new professionals, and our seasoned scholars. For those with long ties to CSCC, it’s wonderful to see you again. For all of those new to our organization, I hope that you will both share and learn about cutting edge scholarship, make new connections, and find a home among distinguished colleagues and friends.

Best wishes,

Sue Kater
CSCC President-Elect and Program Chair
